BIOGRAPHY

Dan Oblinger is the sole proprietor of Leadercraft, a private company devoted to excellence in speaking and corporate training. He is a refreshingly unique voice in corporate retreats and keynotes. He is a father, husband, philosopher, and lawman. He has been successful in his professional life as a hostage negotiator, undercover investigator, human resources consultant, chicken rancher, drug recognition expert, ditch digger, grocery bagger, onion ring maker, and beat cop. Dan has used his unique experiences and high energy humor to educate audiences since 2008. He has carved out a niche as a leading expert in providing speaking, training, and executive consulting for all industries and all across the country. His passion is sharing listening, negotiating, and leadership skills so everyone can become more authentic leaders and lovers.
